Why Miss Rachel Loves Teaching:

“I love teaching music because it is rewarding. I have also learned from my students just as much as they have learned from me.”

Miss Rachel began her violin education at the age of five. She continued lessons, along with viola and cello lessons, throughout high school and studied violin during one year in college. Miss Rachel took lessons at the Yamaha School of Music and studied in the Philippines with Melissa Exmundo & Gilopez Kabayao. She attended Hyles-Anderson College for two years, where she studied both Music and Elementary Education.

Miss Rachel has taught violin for 17 years. While living in the Philippines, she taught at Iloilo Baptist Academy. In Wisconsin, she has taught with Badger State Baptist School, and now at APA.
