

MR CHRIS

dance teacher

the academy of performing arts

Why Mr. Chris Loves Teaching:

“Seeing the growth in my students is one of the biggest reasons I love teaching--to see the art I create exhibited by my students is a huge blessing and to see their improvement just adds another. Teaching is an honor and being able to inspire everyone I teach through dance is also why I love teaching.”

Mr. Chris teaches Hip Hop to all levels (beginner, intermediate, and advanced) at APA!

Born and raised in Wisconsin, Mr. Chris grew up with a heavy foundation in music. He found dance midway through his college career while simultaneously finishing his degree in Finance from the University of Milwaukee.

Along his journey through dance, he has performed for many showcases at UW-Milwaukee, mixed music for various groups, and was part of the Milwaukee Buck's first co-ed dance team, The 414 Crew. When he isn't teaching classes, he can be found training at local studios in Madison and Chicago. Chris specializes in videography and music mixing/engineering and can often be found working on freelance videography projects. When he isn't teaching, working, or training, he can be found curled up in a blanket watching movies while eating delicious snacks.
