

MR ISAAC

music teacher

the academy of performing arts

Why Mr Isaac Loves Teaching:

“I love to teach music because nothing makes me happier than spreading the joy of music and being part of someone's journey discovering it.”

Mr. Isaac teaches acoustic and electric guitar to students of all ages and playing levels!

He loves teaching and listening to genres such as rock, pop, blues, jazz, country, classical, and many more! Mr. Isaac began piano lessons at three years old and then discovered guitar at twelve years old. It quickly became his favorite instrument. He's played in many bands throughout high school and during his time at UW-Milwaukee where he got a Bachelor's of Science degree in Biomedical Engineering.

In addition to playing in everything from jazz ensembles to punk bands, Isaac received lessons and worked with mentors such as Michael Standal (Wisconsin Conservatory of Music) and Steve Peplin (jazz guitar at Lawrence University). When not teaching at APA, Mr. Isaac enjoys juggling, cooking, and of course playing shows.
