

Why Miss Megan Loves Teaching:

“There’s nothing better than seeing the joy that students experience while learning and experiencing music. Helping them on their musical journey is one of the best parts about being a teacher.”

Music teacher

Ms. Megan brings energy, versatility, and a lifelong love of music to every piano lesson. She teaches beginner through intermediate students of all ages, creating a welcoming environment where new musicians feel confident from day one.

Drawing on her background in piano and percussion, she builds strong technique while helping students explore music they love, including classical and pop.

Originally from St. Charles, Illinois, Ms. Megan earned her Bachelor’s degree in Music Performance from Millikin University and her Master’s degree in Percussion Performance from Truman State University. She began playing piano as a child and later expanded into percussion, performing in wind ensembles, jazz bands, orchestras, and musical theatre—experience that brings depth and flexibility to her teaching.

Outside the studio, Ms. Megan enjoys reading, gaming with friends, and spending time with her pets.
