

Music teacher

Why Mr Sam Loves Teaching:

"Teaching music is incredibly rewarding. The teachers in my life helped shape who I am as a musician and as a person, and I'm passionate about paying that forward to the next generation of musicians."

Mr Sam teaches guitar students of all ages and experience levels, helping each student build confidence, creativity, and a lifelong love of music.

While his favorite style to play and teach is jazz, Mr Sam also enjoys working with students on rock, blues, soul/R&B, and many other styles.

A Milwaukee-born guitarist, performer, bandleader, educator, and composer, Mr Sam holds a BFA in Jazz Guitar Performance from UW–Milwaukee. He is an active performer in the Milwaukee music scene and can be found playing with local groups including the Neil Davis Quartet, Rob Knapp and the Soul Patrol, and the Samuel Catral Quartet.

Mr Sam's playing blends jazz, blues, and soul, with a strong focus on improvisation, creativity, and learning music both by ear and through written notation. His goal as a teacher is to help students not only learn songs, but also develop the skills to express themselves musically.

When he's not teaching or performing, Mr Sam enjoys hiking and spending time outdoors with friends and family!
